was gained by Gabriel Dumont when he decided to take a line of attack between Qu'Appelle, Fort, March 27.—[Special.]—The following telegram from Lieutenant Gordon, at Fort Pelly, to Capt. A. Bedbrook, dated at the Qu'Appelle crossing, this morning, and sent to the Governor-General's office at Winnipeg, today, was read to the Council after session of the House:

"The party under my command has just returned from Duck Lake, with a party of 100, sent to Duck Lake to secure a large quantity of supplies there stored. They were met by about 150 rebels, who had an advantageous position in command of the ground and trenches. The rebels first fired, when the action became general. Finding, owing to the superiority in which to me in the fact of the main force of my party. The action of Crozie, Ebbert and Cole, and their men, was gallant in the extreme. The rebels were driven from their position with great loss, and retired in confusion. The action lasted about two hours. The rebels were commanded by Gabriel Dumont in person. Our loss was twelve killed and eleven wounded. The rebels left twenty-one dead on the field, and many wounded, who were carried off. Their loss must be severe, as the fire was very heavy and well directed. Our wounded are doing well. Our force consisted of about 100 men, with two guns. Signed, GORDON, Lieutenant."

Duck Lake is a small settlement on the north branch of the Saskatchewan river, about 30 miles from Carlton. It contains a population of about 200 souls, and is the center of a large district settled by half-breeds. It is about 40 miles from Prince Albert and 100 miles from Battleford. The Indian reserves of Beardy's, Okemasis and Duck Lake are in the immediate vicinity. The Indians on these reserves are not considered dangerous, although they have been in communication with the rebels for some time past. The Indians on the Carlton reserve, about 30 miles from Duck Lake, are considered dangerous, and have been in communication with the rebels. Their chief, Petit Pied, is a half-breed, and has been a leader of the rebels from the first. He has been in communication with Riel and Dumont, and has been instrumental in inducing many of the Indians to join the rebellion. Mr. Lash, Indian agent at Carlton, has been in communication with the Indians, and has been trying to induce them to remain neutral. He has not been successful in his efforts, and has left Carlton for Prince Albert. Mr. Lash is a half-breed, and has been in the employ of the Government for many years. He is considered a good man, and has the confidence of the Indians. He has been in communication with Riel, and has been trying to induce him to disband his men and leave the country. Mr. Lash has been unsuccessful in his efforts, and has left Carlton for Prince Albert. Mr. Lash

ADVICES from Ottawa, Ont., report that Mrs. Fraser left Fort Carlton yesterday for Duck Lake to obtain a quantity of supplies stored there. She was conducted by six mounted police and civilians. At Beatty's Saloon several hundred armed men surrounded, and Mrs. Fraser was forced to labor after a hard fight, in which Jo. Lee received fatal and eleven wounded. Two others were killed in such a fight carrying wounded Bob Winnipeg were wounded. There is a report that a quantity of stores belonging to the Indian Fur Company has been seized by the insurgents. More troops are to be sent at once to the scene of the disturbance from Winnipeg, Quebec, Kingston, and elsewhere.

THE Chicago produce markets were inactive yesterday and generally ruled much after a firm opening. Later operations do not appear to indicate that there will be any war between England and Russia, and some selling is set to meet the buying orders from those people who are interested in the war theory. As compared with Thursday, pork closed 10 cents higher, lard unchanged, lards 2½ cents higher, wheat ½ cent lower, corn a shade easier, oats ½ cent lower, rye ½ cent lower, barley steady, and flax cent lower.

CORNELIUS N. JANSEN, who has been recently engaged in investigating the accounts of the United States Treasury, is believed to have been appointed an agent-at-large attorney to Secretary Manning until the commencement of Mr. Tilden. It was due to Mr. Jansen's efforts to prove conclusively that Secretary McCulloch should not be taxed any more payments at the New York Clearing-House Jordan has failed to discover any irregularities in the Treasury accounts. Secretary Manning is said to regard the failure of Congress to act upon Mr. Cleveland's silver bill as a dangerous mistake.

SERIOUS difficulties are reported between the forces of Honduras and San Salvador in Central America. Nicaragua takes the part of Gen. Barrios and Guatemala. San Salvador pride has stirred many into the fray. Nicaragua provides 1,000 men, and Costa Rica contributes 1,000. President Barrios of Costa Rica will assume chief command of the allied forces. Even Roosevelt's veteran Montana citizens have left the City of Mexico to join the forces of San Salvador and Honduras. The battle fighting toward Barrios is growing more intense in Mexico day by day, and aggressive measures are advocated.

TRADE is an invention of Washington that was between England and Russia it is certain. Statistics collected by the Naval Bureau of Intelligence concerning the relative strength of the two Powers show that while Russia's standing army is more than twice the size of England's, England's navy is nearly double that of Russia. The British navy comprises more than 72,000 officers and men, against 40,000 in the Russian navy. Russia maintains the war footing of her active army at 1,000,000 officers and men, increased by the reserves, recruits, and local troops to nearly twice that number. These are Russian figures, however, and may be exaggerated.

LORD DUFFERIN telegraphed England's situation to Russia day before yesterday, according to yesterday's reply. An agreement was reached yesterday that if the Czar's ruling that a full congress would be made to the consideration of the British Government not later than Tuesday. It is not thought, however, that Russia's reply will be found satisfactory. It is generally believed that the Russians are advancing as fast as possible over the disputed territory, and that the next move will be a call on Penjdeh, which will give Russia an excuse for occupying the Afric. The Afghans are reported to be full of warlike enthusiasm. In case any attack within the next three months the Ameer has no doubt that he can muster 50,000 men, of which number 25,000 will be native Indian troops. In England great preparations are being made at Aldershot and Chatham for the reception of the army reserves and the militia. In the volunteer department there is great activity in preparing vessels for immediate service. It is reported that the naval reserves are to be called out. The Government has given contracts for 10,000 uniforms.

A FIGHT FOR REPAIR.

The contest between Judge Smith and Carter Harrison for the Mayoralty of Chicago is to be legitimate under a party contest. Democratic politics rule as figure in the case. Thousands of men in Chicago who voted for Cleveland last fall have that the selection of Carter Harrison for a fourth term will not only be injurious to the best interests of the city but actually detrimental to the Democratic party in this community. As Gen. Hiram says, Carter Harrison has built up a Harrison party in this city, which retains the Democratic name for purposes of convenience and deception. The principles and successes of this party are due to Mike McDonald and his agents; the campaign is managed by Harvey Wells, Harrison's "political partner." Under the Joe Medill, the Bill Hutchinson, the Mike McDonald, the Workmen, the Citizens, the Globe-Democrat, the Two Pats, the Larrison, and the Coliseum are the representative Democrats of Chicago, the Harrison party's call the Democratic party. Under the Democratic party claims to assume the responsibility of the corruption which has disgraced the Common Council and the Democratic and Democrats encouraged by the City Government the Harrison campaign is not a Democratic campaign and the Harrison ticket has no claim upon the support of Democratic voters who believe in honest municipal government.

What Democrat but Harrison would have nominated to Mike McDonald's Palmer House convention? Could Peter Palmer, or Judge Tree, or Lyman Trumbull, or Judge H. Victor, or Hoffman, or C. B. McCormick, or Hoffman, or Thomas, or Luther, or Gen. Hiram, or any other Democrat have procured the nomination at the hands of the convention? Every intelligent man who has any knowledge of the situation knows that it would have been impossible. In other words, it was a Harrison convention managed by Mike McDonald in person, and not a Democratic convention representing the general interests of the party. Harrison has no party followers, but he does to make a party obligation to vote for him.

Judge Smith, on the other hand, has not come before the people as a party candidate. He was nominated by a Republican convention simply because the nominations of the Republican party was made available for combining the religious and nationalistic elements of the Republican party did not attempt to name the candidates as Democrats. They would unite and sell to the people: "Nominate the best man you can find in Chicago for the nominees and we will take off our coats and help elect him." Judge Smith understands thoroughly that he is pledged to no partisan issues. He stands for the purest Democracy for improved local government. But it has a party of his would not have been permitted to name the man. He would not have made the personal sacrifice incident to an exchange of a Circuit Judgeship for the office of Mayor if there had been no higher motive than to the Judge-and party out to unite once to re-elect. The nature of the man, as well as the circumstances of his candidacy, makes Judge Smith independent of narrow partisan influences; and, if elected, he will go into the office of Mayor free to work and accomplish and temperly whatever he may find it wise to establish good government without regard to partisan interests.

If an independent citizens' movement had been inaugurated this year Judge Smith is just the sort of man—probably the very man—who would have been selected to lead it, and it would not have been possible to find such a favorable opportunity for the other city offices than have been nominated by the Republicans. Coupled with the fact that the knowledge that the Democratic organization is used as a vehicle for more personal ends, an Democratic name with confidence therefore, for its candidates, and the methods are public voting for him on party grounds, and if every Democrat votes against him this disgraceful era of ring and the gang surrounding him be will never again be a candidate for office in this community.

THE SITUATION IN JOHNSON.

The only vote cast in the joint convention of the Illinois Legislature yesterday was that of Senator Streeter, who voted for Gen. Black. On current ten ballots, and nothing more will be done until next week. Then, it is to be hoped, a determined effort will be made to elect a successor to Gen. Logan. A determined effort implies that every member of the Legislature shall vote for somebody. It is time to decide, can be achieved. If this course is adopted—the only honest and fair course—Gen. Logan will certainly have the best chance for election. If the Democrats should unite on Streeter or any other candidate they could give him only 101 votes, which would not be a majority of all present and voting as required by law. But if the Republicans should unite on Gen. Logan or any other candidate they could give him 101 votes, which would be a majority of all present and voting. If all the members of both Houses should participate in the proceedings, and it would be sufficient to elect if any Democrat voted.

The prospective advantage of the Republicans must rank is not sufficient provocation for the Democrats to refuse to vote. Senator Streeter pledged him and his vote to Senator Logan when he declared his intention to vote on every ballot as a duty he owes his constituents. His constituents clearly desire that he contribute the necessary number to party unity. As a matter of fact, no member of the Legislature can justify a refusal to vote for Senator any more than he could justify sitting throughout the entire session of the Legislature and refusing to vote on every question or to answer to the names on the roll-call. Due to be such a betrayal of trust on the other hand, is one of the specific duties of the Legislature, and the law requires that a vote shall be taken every day. Whenever a member who is not absent by reason of sickness or the unavoidable cause refuses to vote he is really violating the law. Both parties have pledged to this principle; it is true that all the members of both parties should do what they owe to about for their support of duty in the past.

There is now a theory that both Logan and Streeter are in favor of an early adjournment of the Legislature before one or the other can be elected. Whether or not this is true, the people demand an early adjournment unless somebody can be elected. There has been enough to Blog. The action has already cost the people $100,000, and nothing of practical benefit to the State has been accomplished. Nothing will be done so long as the Democratic caucus keeps her. If the Legislature is not going to elect a Senator, then the quicker it adjourns the better it will be for the interests of the State. If an election of Logan is to be made, or is to be made impossible, and the party knows, if any, branded with their action, and the Democratic record relegated to the people, who will write it very unkindly if they get another chance at it. The people are entitled to either an election or adjournment.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR SATAN.

The Administration seems to be in the situation of a merchant who opens business at a new stand and bids fair to spoil by advertising for the sake of effect and a vigorous push to attention. In efforts to inaugurate a new era of economy and reform by cutting a few superfluous horses and suffering other extravagances of the Cleveland order have only appealed to the public sense of the ludicrous. Hardly a morning goes the entire Republican Democratic Record goes to United States directing fresh protests to be made against any interference with the civil rights of every conceivable order have that Secretary Bayard has not issued a Bayard card

SCHOOL-SITE TROUBLES.

Commissioner West is after the official scalps of the three commissioners, recently elected by the County Board, to act upon the controversies over school sites in the Thirty-second, Thirty-third, and Thirty-fifth wards, and if these are convicted from this day's court proceedings Governor Yates will be requested to remove them from office. The Thirty-fifth ward trouble is over the location of a school in the Kingsbury and Goodrich subdivision, and Commissioner West is charged with having accepted a bribe of $1,000 to vote for the selection of this location. The Thirty-second ward trouble is over the selection of a site on Lincoln avenue, between Belmont avenue and Grace street, and the Thirty-third ward trouble is over the selection of a site on Wrightwood avenue, between Halsted street and Lincoln avenue. The Thirty-second ward commissioners are Frank Goodrich and Daniel Cahill, and the Thirty-third ward commissioners are Frank Goodrich and Charles Unger. The Thirty-fifth ward commissioners are Frank Goodrich and Charles Unger. The trials will be held in the criminal court, and the commissioners will be given their choice of a jury trial or a trial by the court. The cases will be tried in the order mentioned. Commissioner West declares that he will not be a party to any compromise, and that if the commissioners plead guilty and resign their offices he will not accept their resignations, but will have them removed from office by the Governor. The commissioners have been notified to appear in court on Monday, April 6, at 10 o'clock.

IN GENERAL.

The funeral of Gen. Joseph Stager will take place at 2:30 this afternoon, and not at 2:30 as previously announced.

The thirteenth annual session of the A. A. O. N. Mystic, which began Wednesday, ended last night with a banquet. This is not the only thing to be ended with Mystic, however, as the Supreme Temple will henceforth be known as the Supreme Temple of the World, and many circles in the East will transfer the principal remainder of the work from outside the city.

The grand jury continued only ordinarily busy yesterday, the usual issue, owing to Sheriff-elect Superintendent Lees' new method, having gone over to next week to get the evidence in shape, at 2:30 the grand jury adjourned, Judge Gary and several of the subpœnaed, most of which were against keepers of disorderly houses, and Assistant State's Attorney Ingham, who is engaged in the prosecution of Capt. Whelan Troup and Mike Dalton, charged with burglary.

Shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday morning the occupants of No. 207 South Clark street were much grieved to hear from the cross corridor in Henry Wahlert. They could not be persuaded, and before assistance could be given, the latter had breathed his last unassisted and alone to taking poison. Superintendent Hutchinson and Detectives Bonfield and Shea, who had charge of the case, learned that he had been married but a few months, and that his wife had left him. Wahlert was a native of Germany, and was about 30 years old. He was employed as a bartender at No. 207 South Clark street, and had been in this country but a few months.

There was a meeting last night of Post No. 9, Grand Army of the Republic, to receive Lieut.-Gen. Sheridan, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the United States. The Hessian Fly.

In publishing Bulletin No. 1, Insectary of the Kansas St. Agricultural Experiment Station, has done a good thing for the interests of wheat-growers. This chapter of the report was prepared by Dan A. Wilcox of the United States Bureau of Entomology, who will hereafter be connected with Station Entomologist in the study of insects affecting the wheat crop. The present bulletin is devoted to the Hessian fly, which is a native insect, the "Cecidomyia destructor" of which Say wrote. "The Hessian fly is a native insect, the 'Cecidomyia destructor' of authors, being found in the United States wherever wheat is grown, though the insect was not known to the settlers, brought the insect with them in straw from the old country, and it was first noticed in the year 1779 on Long Island, whence it spread rapidly over the country, reaching Kansas in the year 1874. The 'Hessian' of this insect is a misnomer, as it was not known in Germany, and was probably introduced into this country from England in straw brought over by the Hessian troops during the Revolutionary war. The insect is also known as the 'wheat midge,' 'wheat fly,' 'flax-seed,' 'barley fly,' 'grain fly,' 'chinch fly,' 'red maggot,' 'Hessian maggot,' 'Hessian worm,' 'Hessian grub,' 'Hessian weevil,' 'Hessian bug,' 'Hessian midge,' 'Hessian fly,' 'Hessian,' 'Hessian,' 'Hessian

LITTLE DOT'S FORTUNE.

"Come to Mr. Blair Blue Beards to her grandmother's house.

At the door appeared a little fairy, dressed in an old-fashioned.

She stood and held her skirt in a light hand on the top of her head, a sort of mischievous twinkle in her eyes, and her whole bodice displayed her beautiful, fairy form of golden hair fell on her shoulders, her white bodice displayed her beautiful, and there was a long wait to the other. She spoke rapidly and the room and left a large white envelope down on the table.

"Six for you," she said, quickly turning away. "I expect you rather like Easter being over Saturday."

When the door closed upon Little Dot, Miss Brown had been discussed and read up the preparation which accordingly. It contained a birthday card, a very pretty card. On one side was a bunch of violets, and on the other was printed the following verses:

Happy little children,
Who always mind their mothers,
Everything shows
And everything do.

Happy little girls
Who are always good,
Good little girls
Who a darling be.

Every little girl,
(As I would wish each),
Who loves her mother
Will love me.

"I really don't see what the use" inquired Miss Morris to herself. "For, I am getting to be an old maid. I am 30 years old and I have to be. We are very grownup and have no pleasure being deprived from the doors and pretty sure. Thanks also to mother and to Dot for the present of a new engagement. But I should rather have a long engagement. But I should rather not have those nice poetry a gentleman like Dot. Dear Dottie! He seems to be fond to stay in Boston and prevent to those poor, unfortunate people when he might be master of a great amount which a woman loves enough to marry such an old. He proved to be the best friend that I have had for twelve years. I am fortunately I am sure that. I shall have a few hundred dollars to buy a home in some pretty green prospective. If I was a man I would take a pen and go to see the Bostonians and they had being a woman as I am to do to him. I wonder what made them write me this card. I never spoke to him about this morning. They are not dunces in the theatre," and drew a picture of the thought Miss Morris must be rather flattered.

Everybody in the office of the Great Rock City Bank was wishing to stay. An hour long hours that came in the mails, ordinary parcels, and was signed over the area. He had stood for a position against the bank and thrust his hands into his pockets.

"It's his birthday, and I give her a card," Little Dot was saying. "She will great because I was on the stairs. Don't she remind you of a modern? Such. There was a bird on a tree and the bird was sorry. It said somethin' 'bout build a nest'n and like."

"The proper?" exclaimed old Billy. "I used to have such times in this town." Then he chuckled. "Didn't you have the top all off such a warm October afternoon? Why didn't you grab some girl's hand and run off like Jack of Hearts and there's not yet that kind of thing."

"It was a mighty pretty walk and fun along," answered Little Miss Shannahan. "She wouldn't think I was poor fun to run, would she?" turning up prettily.

"Never you mind, Billy. You wouldn't find it out if she did. You can't play tricks on me. I'm too old a bird for that. Now, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll give you a dollar if you'll tell me what you're going to get her."

"Why, don't you know? Miss Morris, you are a dear, old, stupid thing. You don't know anything about it. Good-by. Don't forget to be at the office at 9 o'clock sharp. Mr. Blair will be there
